

Huco Direct answers aftermarket demands for precision couplings

With particular expertise in the servo, robotics and automation industries, Huco is one of the leading manufacturers of precision couplings to OEMs and the aftermarket. Thanks to lean manufacturing techniques and an extensive range of designs, it offers couplings in all standard metric and imperial sizes with varying degrees of torsional stiffness, vibration dampening and backlash. MRO professionals looking for replacement parts are certain to find a product that will perform to OE standards or higher.

The new Huco Direct service is an e-commerce platform that allows customers to order directly from the Huco factory – which ensures quality advantages as well as industry-leading delivery times. Unlike distributors who deliver from stock and often run out of popular items, Huco can offer next day shipping for its standard parts because of its flexible manufacturing system.

The website is designed to easily identify the ideal coupling for any application thanks to a powerful and easy-to-use search engine. Customers can select the coupling style that they need and then refine their search by material, torque, size, bore diameter and even add keyways if desired. For added peace of mind, 3D CAD models are available to download to ensure that the chosen part will fit the application.

As we've come to expect with online shopping, the ordering process is simple and orders can be paid for by credit card or PayPal using British Pounds, Euros or US dollars. When ordering from the UK, Europe or the USA, most orders will be shipped inside 24 hours. This way, MRO professionals can source and select replacement parts while on-site, with the confidence that the parts will arrive as soon as possible to minimise machine downtime.
